Met Office Aberdeen Meteorologist's View

Winds gusting 60mph at times across most exposed ridges and summits. Despite mild temperatures a significant wind chill is expected at height.

Forecast for Monday 03 Jan 2022

Weather: Showery band of rain and snow across the area overnight, clearing to the south towards dawn, with snow level lowering to around 600m on the retreating edge. This will allow a showery northwest flow to become established, with snow descending to all levels from mid-day. Outbreaks isolated mostly, but building late in the day.

Maximum wind: Northwest 20 gusts 35mph.

Chance of cloud free mountain/hill tops above 800m: By day for any given time starting 95% plus, becoming 90% later.

Visibility: Good or very good out with the showers, becoming moderate to very poor in showers, also only a few metres in hill fog, with bases lowering 450-600m as showers push through.

Temperature: Glens: Minus 2 Celsius increasing 6 Celsius for a time around late morning
At 800m: Plus 1 Celsius decreasing Minus 4 from mid-day
Freezing level: 900 lowering 250m from mid-day
